

The enneagram does for us what the guard's news did for the king. It shows us what our flaw is. Knowing our deepest flaw can set us in motion, like advice on how to be a shepherd. Nor a parent or anyone else. It is not good advice at all. The clue to understanding it is in its position in the narrative. It in spite of example, w to gain lov doesn't ha She is alre she can ass purpose of and rejoice

So when for Lent, y many conc have to sad a way of si enneagram view of the allow our presence o contemplat is to celeb

Clarenci newsletter, The Parabl by Crossro

Enneagi Christina: 26-28 at th

Enneagram Basics™

with

Christina Spahn

This workshop examines the underlying principles of the Enneagram personality theory. Participants are guided through the key concepts of the theory; learning is facilitated by practical examples, humor, and group dynamics. Participants can expect to determine their own Type, better understand their behavior with its gifts and limitations, and investigate some implications for ongoing conversion and spiritual growth.

April 26-28, 1996

Center for Action & Contemplation

The workshop begins on Friday, April 26 (6:30 pm registration) and ends on Sunday, April 28 at Noon. Cost is $75.00 if registered before March 29; after March 29 registration is $85.00. Saturday lunch is included.

4/February - March, 1996

Return to Table of Contents

Return to Section 11