All Saints Gospel Choir. Performance

All Saints Gospel Choir (photo, page 7) brings its joyful harmonies and rollicking rhythms to the CTA Conference for the fifth time. The choir was formed some years ago when three inner city Milwaukee parishes were forced to merge. It is one of the few integrated Gospel choirs. Directing the choir is Arlene Skwierawski, a high school music teacher whose leadership enabled her youth choirs to tour the U.S. and Africa. ASGC performed in Europe in 1998. Sat., 8 PM (11.01)

In the Spirit: Afrocentric Spiritual Stories & Songs. Performance.

Glenda Baker and Emily Hooper Lansana (photo, page 6) present interactive and uplifting tunes and tales that celebrate the African spirit of survival and community. Vocalist Baker and storyteller Hooper have been a performance duo for 13 years, first enlivening black history for children in Chicago schools, then expanding to adults in community settings, national conferences and universities. Venues have included the Chicago Children's Museum, DePaul University, National Association of Black Storytellers, Minneapolis Black Storytellers' Festival, the Field Museum, and the Whole Life Expo. Sat., 11:45 AM & 8 PM (11.02)

"Would That All the Lord's People Were Prophets"

Dianne Bergant, CSA, quotes Numbers 11:29. The Bible shows us that God raises up prophets when the community is at a turning point, or should be but fails to recognize it. Are we at a turning point today? If so, to whom do we turn for prophetic insight? Bergant is professor of Old Testament studies at Catholic Theological Union, Chicago. Her research interests include biblical theology, the integrity of creation, feminism, liberationist perspectives, and world mission. She contributes many reviews to The Bible Today, and authored Israel's Wisdom Literature: A Liberation-Critical Reading (1997). Fri., 3:15 PM (2.01) & Sat., 4 PM (10.01)

Operation Reclamation: Reception, Collegiality and Subsidiarity

Eugene Bianchi and Charles Curran (left) are among the panelists in this workshop sponsored by ARCC Association for the Rights of Catholics in the Church. Moderator is Sidney Callahan. Three revolutionary yet traditional terms in Catholicism are being lost, but need to be reclaimed: reception, collegiality and subsidiarity. The panel will discuss how implementing these concepts will affect Catholics' lives and contribute to peace and justice in the Church. But they are a threat to the present monarchical church governance. How can we get them implemented?
