

THE CONFERENCE: The Seventh Justice and Peace Conference is a unique vacation and learning opportunity for individuals and families. Richard Rohr, OFM, the major presenter for this conference, will teach, inspire, challenge, and provide guidance in our exploration of our theme, Come to the Table: The Gospel as Common Ground.

Afternoon workshops are offered for both adults and children and ample free time is provided to enjoy the uniqueness of the Southwest. Evening gatherings provide a wonderful opportunity to play together. We hope you'll join us for an inspiring and fun-filled week.

Children's Workshop Volunteers: If you have an arts and crafts skill (pottery, woodcarving, friendship bracelet making, etc.) you would like to teach, please check the appropriate space on the registration form and return as soon as possible.

The Site: Located near downtown Albuquerque, the University of New Mexico is a sprawling campus with ample conference facilities. The Aquinas Newman Center, site for the daily activities, is located across the street from the University. The campus is situated near several museums, the Albuquerque Zoo, Old Town, many fine restaurants, and, to the east, the Sandia and Manzano Mountains.

If possible schedule your visit to include the program by the Aztec Dancers at the Pueblo Cultural Center (505) 843-7270 from June 27 thru July 7.
